BRANDI HENTON

Modesto Christian guard

With her scholarship to Long Beach State in hand, Brandi Henton began her senior year knowing that her immediate future is taken care on. That security, and the arrival of a new point guard, has allowed the 5-foot-8 Henton to step into a new role this season.

The Crusaders' primary point guard the last couple of years, Henton has spent more of this season on the perimeter -- scoring, while still providing plenty of passes to her teammates under the basket or cutting into the lane.

As the primary shooting guard, though, her job is to score. She did a fine job of that in the opening week of the Division 4 playoffs, combining for 53 points in victories over Orestimba (72-29) and Linden (83-51).

Henton had six rebounds in each game, and seven steals vs. Orestimba.

"With Alexis (Tillman) playing a lot at the point, we've been able to use Brandi as a scoring threat and it's making it difficult to defend us," said coach Robb Spencer, whose Crusaders are the top-ranked D-4 team in Northern California. "Brandi can hit the three and she can drive to the basket, but she's also able to spot an open teammate. She can still move to the point because of her ballhandling. That's a nice option to have."
