Scouts Grade: 72 Position Rank: 75	Brandi Henton, a 5-foot-7 combo guard from Modesto, Calif., told ESPN HoopGurlz that she has given her verbal commitment to Long Beach State and first year head coach Jody Wynn.  Henton said she considered several other programs including Boise State, Cal State-Fullerton and Nevada.  A huge Laker and Kobe Bryant fan, she said plans on getting to some games live and she's always wanted to live in Los Angeles. The coaching staff was also a major factor.  Henton made her official visit in early September and got to meet and play with the team in their open gym.  "It was really good," Henton said. "I felt like I fit right in."  Henton Update Archive

Known also as a defensive stopper she spent a lot of time this summer working on perimeter shooting and it showed this summer.  Dooley chose Long Beach State after considering several other schools including Cal-Bakersfield, Fresno State, and USC.  "I think I'll be good for them," Dooley said. 2010 guard Khyra Conerly reopens recruitment

Khyra Conerly, a 5-foot-9 combo guard from Alameda High School in Calif., has reopened her recruitment after verbally committing to Long Beach State in February, according to her Bay Area Elite club team coach Kameo Williams.

In March LBSU released head coach Mary Hegarty, the coach Conerly initially committed to and the primary reason she chose the 49ers. Hegarty was replaced earlier this month by Jody Wynn, former assistant coach at USC.

Conerly is completely open now but had made several unofficial visits prior to her verbal, including trips to Eastern Washington, Loyola Marymount, Pepperdine, San Diego State, St. Mary's and UC-Irvine.
